Holt Motion Carries.
The chair immediately put the motion offered by Senator Holt, settling the bill as a special and continuing order for Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock, and it was carried. The voting was viva voce, and only a few Senators joined in the chorus of noes.
The recorded vote on the motion of Senator Mapp was not regarded yesterday as indicating with any degree of accuracy the vote that will be registered on the enabling act itself. It afforded the first opportunity, however, of gauging the attitude of the Senate on the question, and persons who are in intimate touch with the situation pressed to see signs which point to surprising developments when the bill itself comes to a vote. Both sides have so far carefully refrained from claiming a majority.

Whatever the final vote on the enabling act, yesterday's developments in the Senate give assurance that it will be taken next week with the probability that the measure may be disposed of before adjournment on Wednesday. The House bill, it is believed, will not seriously interfere with the progress of the bill to a speedy final vote.

THE HOUSE

The House was convened at noon with prayer by Rev. L. G. Gibbs, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd. Speaker Cox signed House bill No. 6, passed in both branches, providing a tax of one cent on the value of money owned by citizens of Virginia, whether in bank in this or other States, or in the possession of any person, or in any other form. Shortly afterward it was announced that the bill had been signed by Governor Mann, and an emergency measure, and taken effect from the time of its signature, and will, therefore, apply to the annual assessment as of February 1, superseding the old rate in Richmond of $1.75 per $100.

Committee on Health Boards.
On motion of Mr. Hurrell, the House Committee on General Laws was discharged from consideration of Senate bill No. 149, which permits Dr. W. M. Smith, recently appointed postmaster of Alexandria, to continue to serve on the State Board of Health. Under the old statute Federal appointees were prohibited from serving on State boards. The House bill provides that in question shall not operate to prevent any United States postmaster from being a member of the State Board of Health, and that the office of member of the State Board of Health shall be vacated by reason of his appointment as postmaster. The constitutional readings were dispensed with and the bill put on its passage. Mr. Hurrell moved that the bill be passed. The bill was passed and taken up on its order and passage.

On Motion of Mr. Stubbs, House bill No. 149, exempting the County of Gloucester from the provisions of the law making a tax on dogs was taken up out of its order. Members from the adjoining counties suggested that the bill would be all right if Gloucester, which would keep their dogs at home, was put on its passage and passed—yes, 11; noes, 5.

Bills Passed.
The House passed the following House bills:

No. 7.—To amend and re-enact an act to provide in cities containing 75,000 inhabitants or more, the election of a special justice of the peace, to be known as the civil justice, to describe his jurisdiction and powers, and to fix his compensation, and to authorize the issue by other justices of the peace in said cities of warrants enforceable by said civil justice, approved March 3, 1908, as amended, in force from January 1, 1914, to January 1, 1915, providing for interdicts under executions issued by said civil justice, creating the position of clerk of said civil justice, and giving said civil justice certain powers in matters of contempt.
